Gen Charles P Stone —It seems as though some men were fated to meet and to bear intense and embittered persecution Last week, the dispatches were full of complaint against Gen Stone, and newspapers all over the coast revived and reuttered all the stories about the Ball's Bluff disaster, though forgetting to state that the Congressional committee on the Conduct of the War, long ago exonerated him from any liability to the repeated accusations so unjustly and cruelly made. This time, however, truth seems to follow the lie somewhat more rapidly than usual, as by the dispatches published yesterday, it appears "that Gen Ransom has issued a card fully denying that Gen Stone was in any way responsible for the recent reverses in Louisiana" We hope the poor man will get the benefit of this declaration, though after almost the whole press of the nation has denounced him for a week, the show for justice is rather hazy The varying and strange reports about the Louisiana matters are evidently the work of somebody, whose purpose is quite as much to make a sensation as to tell the truth

Novelties of the Sanitary Fairs —The various Sanitary Fairs now being held throughout various parts of the North, to replenish the exhausted treasury of the Commission, have adopted many curious novelties to attract the gallants to them, and relieve them thereby of their loose change They get up tableaux, panoramas and musical parties; but the one lately held at Albany, besides having on exhibition, and for sale, thousands of beautiful articles of luxury and necessity, the ladies have booths and apartments representing the customs and manners of different countries, and where they dispense sherbets, ices, coffee, etc, en costume of the age and character they assume. We take the following from the New York correspondence of the S F Alta:

"Like the rest of the Sanitary Fairs, this is a success The Shaker booth is another of the principal features of the bazaar Mrs Franklin Townsend presides over it, assisted by several beautiful young ladies in costume The articles they supply are manufactured by the Shakers, and are not only attractive but useful The Oriental booth is fitted up in purely Eastern style, and its inmates are dressed in costumes described in the Arabian Night's Entertainments At times the interior presents a life like picture of a Turkish apartment—the Turk being seated upon an ottoman, with eight or ten beautiful women reclining about him Another pretty feature of the booth is,

"'The old woman who lived in a shoe
And who had so many children she didn't know what to do'

"The poor old woman still lives in a shoe surrounded by an almost countless number of bright, chubby little babies, and as she offers to sell them cheap, pleasure as well as charity should direct the steps of the visitor to her humble abode The ladies presiding in the Military Department are dressed in elegant and attractive military costume, with shoulder straps designating their rank of office Miss Margaret Worth and Miss Frances Pruyn wear the insignia of Major Generals Others, as privates, and others again with pretty faces and handsome limbs, as vivandieres.

"The Sanitary Fair now being held in Brooklyn, is an immense success money pours into the treasury like rain and nobody complains of anything except the visitors They, as a general thing, find themselves flattened in corners, trodden upon, elbowed, and otherwise inconvenienced and complain of not having seen anything but their neighbors' hats and bonnets Even the New England kitchen is crowded to such an extent that it is hard work to find sufficient elbow room for the handling of knife, fork, or spoon, after the "apple sarse" pork and beans, 'Johnny cake,' etc, having been purchased and placed within tempting reach upon the snowy cloth.

"The one in Gotham, which is now being prepared, will be presided over by all the pretty belles in New York in fancy costumes Bal masques and fancy dress balls will be nothing to it in the dazzling array of beautiful dresses and recherche elegance which will be made its most prominent features What a splendid matrimonial market it will be too Just imagine a Circassian slave or Page's picture of Venus represented by some of Gotham's fairest daughters The admission will be one dollar—cheap enough for all it will be seen It will continue for several weeks"

From $25,000 to $30 000 worth of bullion is daily shipped from Virginia City by Wells, Fargo & Co 's Express The weight of this freight averages from a half to three quarters of a ton each day

Alabama Moving Toward the Union.

A meeting of citizens was held on the [illegible] th of March at Huntsville Alabama to devise means for the restoration of Alabama to the Union, and bringing back to the State law, order and social harmony The attendance consisted mostly of men who have a deep interest in the welfare of the State Two speeches were made, one by the Hon Jere Clemens, who sat in the United States Senate when Jeff Davis was a fellow Senator (the other by the Hon D C Humphreys The spirit of the meeting may be gathered from the following extract from Mr Clemens's speech

We propose to call upon the Governor of the State to [illegible] a Convention for the purpose of [illegible] the Act of Secession [illegible] the Government [illegible] respect to our action I can [illegible] say To be candid I think he will pay it [illegible] In calling upon him we avoid the charge of precipitancy and [illegible] the constitutional [illegible] that we have the right [illegible] our ancient rights—to act for ourselves [illegible] crime now [illegible] of the Union [illegible] that sece sion was necessary to save slavery During the four years preceding the [illegible] the State of Alabama he has lost ten slaves a year We had reason and the consequence now is that there is not one man in the State of Alabama who can say he has too little to a single nigger Not all of us have a [illegible] anything The practical result is Emancipation Cotton they said was king—would secure us recognition and independence The result is, Confederate money is worth five cents on the dollar They said that civil liberty and State rights would be secured by secession The first act of the Confederate Congress deprived the people of the right to select their President If a man owned twenty negroes he was excused from military duty If a man had ten starving children he was not The man who owned the negroes could stay at home with his wealth the man with starving children must leave them and go to the battle field You and I may have had some fear of the success of the Confederacy I think God there is now no prospect of its succeeding

Before the meeting closed Mr Clemens again took the floor and said

In 1861 shortly after the Confederate Government was put in operation, I was in the city of Montgomery One day I stepped into the office of the Secretary of War General Walker and found there engaged in a very excited discussion Mr Jefferson Davis, Mr Memminger Mr Benjamin Mr Gilchrist a member of our Legislature from Lowndes county and a number of other prominent gentlemen They were discussing the propriety of immediately opening fire on Fort Sumter to which Gen Walker the Secretary of War, appeared to be opposed Mr Gilchrist said to him: Sir unless you sprinkle blood in the face of the people of Alabama, they will be back in the old Union in less than ten days! The next day Gen Beauregard opened his batteries on Sumter, and Alabama was saved to the Confederacy

Mr Humphreys occupied a little different ground, but he was equally in earnest for a return to the Union He said

The people of Alabama say that the State was precipitated —wrongfully precipitated—out of the Union, and that they are willing to take their stand in the old Union—that Government in which they always found prosperity—which gave them strength at home and abroad Since the action of France, does any one think that an alliance with her would have restored popular rights secured States rights? Does any man say so? From the time I left Virginia our army has been continually receding—the Union army steadily advancing, territory has been continually lost True, our army has stood and fought valiantly for it but it cannot stand against superior power What territory can now be said to be within the power or under the control of the Confederacy? From the time this rebellion began up to the present Davis and Benjamin have not had an idea that the States of the South could stand unaided by foreign powers You have n't thought of that but it is true That was the position taken by them at the incipiency of the rebellion. Such is still their belief

The meeting adopted strong Union resolution Alabama never went willingly out of the Union The conspirators "sprinkled blood in the face of her people," and while they were yet blind with it, her authorities committed her to the action which has cost her so dearly. Drive out the rebel force that oppresses her, and she would hasten back to the Union She looks longingly at the old Stars and Stripes and though the bayonets of her oppressors thrust her back, there are clear evidences that if our armies only half meet the expectations that wait upon them this spring and summer Alabama will speedily be back again, one of the cherished States of the Union

Jackson County Resolutions.

The following resolutions were adopted at the Union Jackson County Convention, at Jacksonville April 30th These resolutions meet our full approbation When a little leisure allows us to do so, we propose to refer more at length to one or two of them

Resolved That we, the delegated representatives of the Union men of Jackson County state of Oregon in convention assembled in the discharge of a duty we owe to our constituents, and our country unite in the following declaration

1 That we endorse the resolutions passed by the Union State Convention held at Albany on the [illegible] of March 1864, fully and unreservedly, and we will cordially support all its nominations

2 We favor the doctrine of instruction to be the right of the people to make known to their representatives their wants and wishes on all questions whether political or local, and this convention declares the local wants and interest, of this section of the state to be as follows

3 That the military post known as "Fort Lane and the Indian reservation known as the Table Rock Reservation having ever since 18[illegible] been abandoned and are not again to be used for the purposes for which they were set apart the Indian title to the land included in the reservation should be extinguished and brought into market subject to the pre emption and other laws of the United States, securing the right of the settlers, and also that the settlers whose improvements were made prior to the location of the reservation included in the same and dispossessed by the authorities should be indemnified by the General Government

4 That it is the duty of the Federal Government and in accordance with its practice in similar cases that the claims of those who purchased supplies and rendered service to the expedition commanded by Captain Jesse Walker fitted out in this county by order of the Governor of Oregon to aid and protect the emigrants in the year 18[illegible], should be paid by the Federal Government

5 Southern Oregon being without navigable rivers to aid inter communication and commerce its need for good wagon roads, is greater than other sections of the State therefore we ask our delegation in Congress to procure a liberal appropriation for the location and construction of a good Military Wagon Road from Jacksonville to the [illegible] road leading from S [illegible] to [illegible] this

6 We hereby instruct the nominees of this convention to advocate the principles declared in the foregoing and the [illegible] resolutions

7 That the secretary of this convention furnish copies of the resolutions to our delegation in Congress and we earnestly request our Representatives and Senators in Congress to use their best exertions to procure the necessary means to carry these several objects into effect

A Female Typographical Union was organized Monday evening April 25th, at San Francisco, with over thirty ladies and fifteen gentleman as members All the gentlemen are practical printers, and several of the ladies have worked at the 'case' in Eastern States for some years the remainder of the ladies intend learning the business

Letter from Placerville

[From our [illegible] Correspondent]

Placerville, Boise Co, I T
April 28th, 1864

Everything with us is running along as smoothly as though there were no internal war, or danger of a foreign one being fixed up in us I never saw a class of men so intent upon minding their own business as are the happy denizens of Idaho Even the vexed question of politics is seldom mentioned except by those who [illegible] to do That Idaho has a crop of such there is no doubt, and their last winter was spent in the Legislative lobby, engineering through all sorts of bills that profit all all men or themselves and friends The incorporation of the towns of Idaho City and Placerville was a portion of their handiwork [illegible] good people of Idaho City were food for the [illegible] vampires at [illegible] by a majority of some 1,000 The local paper having sniffed the breeze of municipal stealings in the distance its distended and delicate nostrils and becomes the [illegible] of the city and outsiders with having accomplished the feat [illegible] measure Now taking this newspaper as extensive truth, [illegible] for the extensive Idaho City only 1,000 votes were polled, and but 200 being in favor of incorporation, it is clearly to be deduced according to the News that there are but 200 respectable citizens in the city This is the News' record, and is such I give it due credit The people of Placerville were not quite so sensible and the incorporation was agreed to by a small majority A Mayor Council, and all the paraphernalia of a city, with its attendant expenses are now saddled upon the meek Placervillians, who will no doubt be ridden to death by their new found masters

From observation, I have come to the conclusion that no busier or more money making population of its size can be found in the face of the earth than that of Placer District Go where you will and the claim holders have smiling faces and plethoric purses Just imagine 500 men on three or four gulches earning from $10 to $100 a day from each hired hand and count if you can, the aggregate of their summer's work The hills, which a year since were crowned by lofty pines, are now being made to assume the shape of level plains, what was then solid ground is now standing on artificial underpinning, and the once swift and handsome brooks that would have inspired the poet's pen, are upturned, and the once crystal water converted into a mighty labor saving power for the extraction of gold from its own bed

For a distance along Granite Creek, the mighty hills are shaken to their foundations by the frequent blasts of the quartz miners who are all sanguine of striking the lead Some of the quartz miners from California pooh pooh at our ledges, say they are not quartz, etc, and appear to think there is nothing new "from under a California sun." I fell in with one of them yesterday, who was examining the ledge I represent He said my ground indicated well, but the Pioneer was a humbug, in his estimation. I took a pan and shovel and asked him to go to the Pioneer shaft with me, and I would show him some thing Outside the shaft is a pile of rock, thrown promiscuously, and I told him to say where I should get my pan of dirt; he laughingly pointed to a place, and told me I might try that I did so, and lo! I got a dollar This was a poser He thought I was "salting" him and tried for himself two or three different times, doing even better He gave it up at last, and said if that ledge was in California it would be worth $500 per foot with such prospects This gentleman had experience in such matters, and I was anxious to convince him, which I did beyond my own expectations, and I might here state that should any capitalist run the risk of putting up a custom quartz mill at this place, he will be liberally patronized, and well remunerated

As many of your readers are interested in the quartz of this section I will give you a list of the most prominent, with their improvements Pioneer, running a tunnel in some 20 feet average rock Gold Hill tunnel, in some 150 feet narrow streak of very rich rock and about three feet in width of average Columbia tunnel, in some 10 feet, good indications, Webfoot tunnel, (on Columbia ledge) in 20 feet, very rich sulphurets, Golden Gate tunnel, in some 40 feet, more than average rock, Daly (Pioneer ledge) shaft commencing Sawyer ledge, more than average rock, running a tunnel to strike the ledge a hundred feet below the surface There are many other claims but sufficient work has not been performed on which to form an estimate

Two men, brothers named McNeil were killed a few days since in Illinois Gulch by the caving in of a bank while ground sluicing Their fate was not known till next morning, when not appearing for breakfast their comrades went to the claim and found them dead under the bank About the same time another man was dangerously wounded in Granite Gulch from the same cause.

A man named McQuail fell down the stairs of the Empire Hotel, in this city, a few nights since, and is supposed to be fatally injured

The Sawyer Gold and Silver Mining Company were organized under the laws of Idaho, during the past weeks, with a capital stock of $140,000—principal office at Placerville

As an evidence of Placerville civilization I will mention the fact that we have here five setts of hurdy gurdy girls who are patronized and danced to their heart's content The young men, who, when at home, look heavenward at the slightest peccadillo are the chief operators here with the hurdies

The stages from Walla Walla and Umatilla make the trips here inside of five days Pretty good considering the stock

CRAYON

P S —Since writing the above the Gold Hill boys, in sinking a shaft have struck their ledge at a depth of six feet 12 inches wide The rock assays $5 000 to the ton, and $100 per foot is now offered and refused

C

Three Boys Lost —By a private letter dated at Olympia the 27th of April, we learn that considerable anxiety was felt concerning three children, sons of Marcus McMillan living near Claquato Lewis county W T that had wandered away from home three days before They were aged respectively 8, 10 and 12 years and the apprehension was that they had been devoured by wild beasts The country was being searched for many miles around

Governor A C Gibbs will speak at Aurora, Thursday May 12th Belpassi, Friday, May 13th, Silverton Saturday May 14th; speaking to begin at 7 o clock

The receipts of the Custom House, San Francisco, for April, to the 27th, are $634,762 34

A Reese River Orator.—Speaking of the late canvass in Austin, Lander county, N T, which resulted in a Union victory a correspondent of the Union, under date of April 19th, relates the following

The candidate of the Union party for Mayor of this rising city is Charles Holbrook, one of the most prominent merchants of the town His Copperhead opponent is David E Buell, Indian Agent under James Buchanan, and formerly of El Dorado county, California Several mass meetings have been held by each party within the last ten days, each of which marched in procession from the head of Upper Austin to the lower end of Clifton The Union procession numbered about 550 The Copperheads in procession numbered 259 including two Indians, who disgraced themselves by holding a place in the body of the procession

Holbrook's address proved him to be a gentleman of considerable oratorical power, much strength of character, and of unflinching firmness in the cause of human liberty But oll's effort (an abortive one it was) consisted mainly of allusion to self He was a pioneer he said, in Lander county, (he entirely ignored our race) he had laid these bare hills off in town lots, he had erected the first mill in this canon, he had made an unsuccessful exploration for a toll road to the Colorado river he was "as good a Union cuss as any body" That assertion of his reminds me of an incident that occurred in Washington city in 1857 A delegation of chiefs (I forget the tribe) from Minnesota were at that time in Washington soliciting aid for their people from the Government As they were clad in their finest buckskin toggery, which showed their shape off to such advantage they of course received many polite acts of attention from the people of Washington One beautiful female, indeed of lily cast of countenance, became so infatuated with the manly proportions and character of one of the Chiefs that she has since shared his fireside in the wilds of Minnesota Neither was she devoid of influence over the hitherto untamed heart of her beloved Chief, for it was his regard for her that caused him to disclose the plot for a general massacre of the white inhabitants of Minnesota Unfortunately, the disclosure came too late to save all, but thousands of lives were returned, as it were to the whites for the one White Lily given our swarthy Chief to comfort him in his wigwam home Among others who did themselves the honor of conversing with the Chief, was John B Floyd Now be it known to you reader the Floyds were, mayhap are, fond of boasting of the directness of their descent from a fair maiden yclept Pocahontas, even though she loved too well This assumed fact John B Floyd F F V, now F F, tried to convey in his blandest manner to one of our Chiefs The latter appeared incredulous But when Floyd insisted that a tint of royal Indian blood ran through his veins the Chief with an ominous grunt applied the middle finger of his right hand behind the left ear of the belligerent Floyd rubbed it smartly for a few seconds, then raised it up to his nose to get the scent With the most perceptible sneer, the Chief then rejoined "No Indian [illegible]," nor could he be persuaded to condescend to hold further converse with a person of such lineage

Now D E Buell may be a "cuss," but his Unionism smells of the nigger

Ivers was hung by the same party some four miles from town, and Whisky Bill at Fort Owens, thirty miles distant.—Boise News.

BOISE ITEMS.—The Boise News of April 23d, received through Wells, Fargo & Co., contains the following items:

Mr. Archibald Moore, a native of Donhat, Monaghan county, Ireland, aged about 23 years, while standing on the carriage of the Bear Run Saw mill about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, slipped and fell upon the circular saw then in motion. His head was completely severed from his body, and his shoulders, face and hands horribly gashed and disfigured. About a week ago he, upon starting to South Boise, said to his friend Erastus Booth, that he felt as if something was about to happen him, and gave his name, county and post office, so that if his fears were realized, Booth might write to his friends, had it not been for this circumstance, we should have been unable to ascertain these facts.

A party of six men with nine animals arrived in this city on Tuesday last, direct from Healdsburg, Cal., which place they left a month ago. They came by way of Washoe, Humboldt mines and Owyhee. One of the party, informs us that the roads are good, and grass and water abundant all the way from here to the Humboldt mines. They were precisely 30 days out from Healdsburg to this place, and report the road lined with people on their way here. Wagons have arrived within fifteen miles of Jordan creek, where the hills became too rough for them to proceed farther.

Frank Johnson writes to the News from Salmon Falls that on the 24th of March, 1864, the Indians had stolen a horse from the men engaged at the ferry. The men went near the camp, and the Indians commenced firing at them. They returned the fire and killed eight Indians. The next morning another engagement ensued, and resulted in killing eleven Indians. The same evening the ferrymen attacked the camp and killed ten Indians. Two days after on the 27th of March, attacked a party on the road, and killed two Indians and captured two horses.

GROVER & BAKER'S MACHINE.—We speak from experience, having one in use in our family, when we claim for the Grover & Baker Sewing-Machine all the merits which they represent it to possess. Parties have only to call at the Grover & Baker sales-room, and witness the perfect working of their machine on every variety of fabric, either the most delicate gauze tissue or the heaviest soldier's overcoat, and doing each with such perfection and rapidity, as to convince any person wanting a machine that they can here find a perfect one. Besides doing ordinary sewing, this is the only machine which successfully makes that beautiful embroidery stitch now almost indispensable for ornamenting ladies' and children's garments, of which a great variety of styles and patterns are on exhibition at their office. Those indispensable features of sewing—strength, uniformity, and elasticity—all of which are brought out in this incomparable invention, make it the first sewing-machine in the world.—St. Louis Democrat.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants.—Sold by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. ap26d1m

Politics in the Private Box.

OR, HOW GERMANY IS GOVERNED.

"The play is the thing,
At which I'll catch the frivolous old King."
Hamlet, latest edition.

That the Continent is do everything at the theatre is tolerably well known. Business which an Insular would think it more fitting to transact on 'Change, or in a lawyer's office, or in a minister's apartment, is abroad, performed in the private box, while the opera is going on, or the dialogue of the men of business is agreeably varied by the love talk in the comedy. This fact may in some measure account for the farcical character of a good deal of the public and private transactions of the Continentals. But Mr. Punch has not seen the custom more agreeably illustrated than the other day by the elector of Hesse-Cassel.

This bumptious sovereign was required by his ministers to give his assent to a message to his parliament. Until this had been delivered, the so-called legislature could not be prorogued. But when the premier came to the place by appointment with the document, he was informed that his serene highness had gone to the play.

"Bother the play!" said the statesman, sotto voce. "Drive to the theatre; can't you?" he added, angrily, to his coachman, as if it were the poor man's fault that his sovereign was a frivolous personage.

The coachman showed that he could drive to the theatre, and did.

"Wait," said the premier, going up stairs in no very good temper. "Boxkeeper."

"Here, your excellency. Like a bill of the play, or a book of the words?"

"Confound you, no!" said the minister—"His serene highness is here, is n't he?"

"Yes, excellency."

"Very well, open the door."

"The door of the royal box, excellency?"

"What other door do you think I mean, you great owl?" said the premier, striding to the box of his master.

The boxkeeper in some trepidation opened the door a very little way, so little that if the premier had been as thin as the late William Pitt, he could not have gone through.

"I have told you half a dozen times I don't want any refreshments!" roared a voice from within.

"I'm not bringing you any, you idiot," muttered the premier, and then entered with a profound bow.

"Oh, it's you," said his serene highness, good naturedly. "I'm glad you've come. Here's such a capital scene going on. That chap hiding in the cupboard is Bibblewitz, and he thinks the officer there, Guttleburg, has come after his niece; but the fact is, he wants a hamper of sausage that has been delivered by mistake, and it is in that very cupboard. I'll bet you he'll smell it out—you're just in luck. Ha! ha! ha! ha!"

"I should not have ventured to intrude upon your highness' intellectual recreations," said the minister, "but the message—"

"Bother the message! let's see about the sausage," said his highness. Ha! ha! Didn't I say so? He sniffs it and now he'll discover Bobblewitz. No, stop, here comes the girl, Magdalen. That stops him. Is n't she pretty, eh?"

"I am no great judge of female beauty, your highness, but she seems to me to be fat and badly painted. But if your highness would deign to accord me a moment or two, I need not interfere again with your admiration of the young—or middle-aged person."

"Well, what is it?" said his highness, still keeping his lorgnette on Magdalen. "She's not more than six and twenty, I tell you."

"The message is ready and the parliament is anxious to depart. Your highness has only to signify your assent to this document"

"See, Bobblewitz is pinching her arm as a sign not to leave the room."

"Which has been framed exactly in conformity with your highness' instructions."

"That was a good scream, was n't it?"

"Except in reference to the revenue, which cannot be described as perfectly flourishing."

"Now, you see, Guttleburg must make love to her, to account for his presence in the house."

"And we must give the promise to revise the railway taxation."

"Eh! That was a good slap in the face she gave him. I think that was given in real earnest. Perhaps there's some row between them—could n't you go round and find out from some of the ballet girls?"

"And the minister of religion must be referred to as an invaluable official to justify the demand for increased salary."

"My eye! he's kneeling, and has stuck his spur into himself. Oh, this is one of the best comedies I ever saw!"

"Those are the only alterations, your highness, and I venture to think that you will approve of them."

"How he keeps rubbing himself. I wonder whether those spurs are really pointed, or whether it's only fun."

"I may assume your highness' approval, and deliver the message?" said the minister rising.

"Eh, sit still. I swear I have not heard one word that you've been saying. Can't you hold your tongue till the play is over?"

"In that case the deputies will lose the night train, your highness, and they have had a long session."

"I tell you what, baron," said the elector, getting angry, "it is not only impertinent but disloyal to come bothering me in this manner. Is the theatre a place for such important business?"

"Your highness did me the honor to command my attendance at the palace, and then not to be there to receive me."

"I suppose I may go to the theatre if I like! When I made the appointment I had n't seen the play bill, and did n't know that soldiers and sausages was to be played. It was your business to have informed me."

"I beg leave to place my portfolio in your serene highness' hands," said the minister bowing coldly, "and trust that my successor will be better aware of the duties of a statesman."

"Now, then, there you go, flying out like gunpowder because one just speaks to you, and here we are missing no end to fun! Here, porcupine that you are, give us hold of the paper. What a beastly handwriting! I suppose it's that stiff backed ass, Pumplebluesskin's."

"My nephew may not have all the graces of a courtier, your highness, but he is a faithful servant of yours."

"He looks like a servant out of livery. Well, as far as I can read it, the thing seems all right. Stop! what's that word?"

"That! Why it's 'constitutional.'"

"How dare you put such a word into my mouth? I will not sanction the message, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself!"

"If your highness will look at the context—"

"But I won't, and I don't see any context. Where's the context—do you mean the green ribbon—what's that got to do with it?"

"I mean the sense of the passage, highness."

"There's no sense in the passage, and you just go out into the passage and scratch the word out, or I won't prorogue."

"I undertake to do so, highness. With that correction may I deliver the document in?"

His serene highness was going to refuse, but at that moment the fair Magdalen sat down to take off her shoes for the further castigation of her unfortunate lover, and the sovereign impatiently signed to his prime minister to be off.

So the lover was slapped and the message delivered, and the Parliament of Hesse-Cassel prorogued. And this is the way the Germans submitted to be governed—the great Germans who claim a voice in the affairs of Europe.

Source of the Columbia.

At a time when the discovery of rich mines attracts attention to the source of the Columbia, the following sketch by Father De Smet, describing his visit to that locality as far back as 1845, will be interesting to the general reader:

The 4th of September, towards noon, I found myself at the source of the Columbia. I contemplated with admiration those rugged and gigantic mountains where the great river escapes—majestic but impetuous even at its source; and in its vagrant course it is undoubtedly the most dangerous river on the western side of the American hemisphere. Two small lakes from two to six miles in length, formed by a number of springs and small streams, are the reservoirs of its first waters.

I pitched my tent on the banks of the first fork that brings in its feeble tribute, and which we behold rushing with impetuosity over the inaccessible rocks that present themselves on the right. What sublime rocks! How varied in shape and figure! The fantastic in every form, the attractive, the ludicrous, and the sublime present themselves simultaneously to the view; and by borrowing, ever so little, the aid of the imagination, we behold arising before our astonished eyes castles of bygone chivalry, with their many embattled towers—fortresses, surrounded by their walls and bulwarks—palaces with their domes—and, in fine, cathedrals with their lofty spires.

On arriving at the two lakes, I saw them covered with aquatic birds—coots, ducks, waterfowl, cormorants, buzzards, cranes and swans; whilst beneath the tranquil water lay shoals of salmon in exhaustion. At the entrance of the second lake, in a rather shallow and narrow place, I saw them pass in great numbers, cut and mutilated, after their long and weary pilgrimage among the rapids, cataracts, valleys, and falls; they continue this interrupted procession during weeks and months.

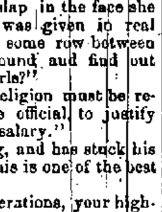

When emigration, accompanied by the arts and sciences, shall have penetrated into the valleys of the Rocky Mountains, the source of the Columbia will prove a very important point. The climate is delightful; the extremes of heat and cold are seldom known. The snow disappears as fast as it falls; and the laborious band that would till these valleys would be repaid a hundred fold. Innumerable herds would graze throughout the year in these meadows, where the sources and streams nurture a perpetual abundance. The hillocks and declivities of the mountains are generally studded with inexhaustible forests, in which the larch tree, pine of different species, cedar and cypress abound.

In the plain between the two lakes are beautiful springs, whose waters have reunited and formed a massive rock of soft sandy stone, which has the appearance of an immense congealed or petrified cascade. Their waters are soft and pellucid, and of the temperature of milk just drawn from the cow. The description just given by Chandler of the famous fountain of Pambouk Kalesi, on the ancient Heropolis of Asia Minor, in the valley of Meander, and of which Malte Brun makes mention, might be literally applied to the warm springs at the source of the Columbia. The prospect unfolded to our view was wonderful, and an attempt to give even a faint idea of it would savor of romance, without going beyond the limits of facts.

We contemplated, with an admiring gaze, this vast slope, which, from a distance, had the appearance of chalk, and when nearer, extends like an immense concreted cascade, its undulating surface resembling a body of water suddenly checked or indurated in its rapid course.

The first lake of the Columbia is two miles and a half distant from the river Des Arcs-a-Plat, and receives a portion of its waters during the great spring freshet. They are separated by bottom land. The advantages nature seems to have bestowed upon the sources of the Columbia, will render its geographical position very important at some future day. The magic hand of civilized man would transform it into a terrestrial paradise.

PERUVIAN SYRUP,

OR PROTECTED

Solution of Protoxide of Iron,

It has been used with Great Success in Curing

DYSPEPSIA,

Affections of the Liver, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Bronchitis and Consumptive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Female Complaints, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Scurvy, the prostrating effects of Lead or Mercury,

GENERAL DEBILITY,

and all Diseases which require a

Tonic and Alterative Medicine.

THE PROOFS OF ITS EFFICACY are so numerous, so well authenticated, and of such peculiar character, that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered aid.

The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure, is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest order of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

From well-known Citizens of Boston.

The undersigned having experienced the beneficial effects of the "Peruvian Syrup," do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

Rev. JOHN PIERPONT, THOMAS C. AMORY,

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known that the medicinal effect of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup, this desirable point is attained by COMBINATION IN A WAY BEFORE UNKNOWN; and this solution may replace all the proto carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica. A. A. HAYES, M. D.,

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY of modern chemistry; and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless, until Dr Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1856, page 16.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is attended by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body, in the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Full directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all Druggists. Price, $1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr. H. Anders & Co, Physicians and Chemists, New York.

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutricious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and bring the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters,

As an invigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.
